

Dr Peter Kahan studied at the University of Southampton from 1972 to 1981 gaining a BSc (Hons) and a PhD in Electrical Engineering.

Peter also gained an MSc in Advanced Professional Studies from the University of Edinburgh in 2000.

Peter taught in Scottish Further Education for over 25 years teaching a wide range of subjects in engineering and mathematics. He held a number of senior posts in Further Education including Director of Quality where he developed an extensive knowledge of educational quality systems.

Peter also worked for the Scottish Qualifications Authority (SQA) for over 30 years as a principal assessor, senior external verifier and educational consultant.

He has written a wide range of NQ and HN unit specifications and award documents for the SQA.

Peter has been Chief Executive Officer for APEAS since its inception in 2003. He has presided over the development of APEAS including a number of successful ARB prescriptions and RIBA validations.